- To give participants tools to work on collective problem sharing and solving
- To enhance cooperation within the school community (parents, students, school staff) and with a wider spectrum of education stakeholders
- To increase the confidence and motivation of teachers to implement inclusive pedagogies
- To explore principles of Inclusion, Health and Wellbeing within the host country's Education System

Testimonials

“Thank you to all the speakers this week, to the schools and especially to our trainers for their welcome, their kindness and what they brought to the group. The course made us think about our own practice and we look forward to discussing this with our colleagues and our management.”

“We realise that in Europe many things bring us together in inclusive education! Thank you very much for your serious AND funny ways to teach us. It was great.”
